SUNDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1868.

IMPENDING TROUBLES.

"Peace," said Segur, "is the dream of the wise, war the history of man." But the European philosopher, had he known the River Plate, would have said, peace is the dream of fools, war our natural state. Scarcely has the grave civil war of Entre Rios and Corrientes ceased, when we are chased from Rioja, scarce had we time to congratulate the country upon the re-establishment of peace, when we find ourselves nolens volens drawn into another struggle.

It may be necessary to fight the Orientals, and thus teach them to respect our flag. It may be popular to declare war against the blancos, and make an example of them, for once to take heed; but if so, we are prepared to prove that it is at the present moment extremely inconvenient.

We will not now enter into the conduct of M. Marmol, or offer any defence to the charges made against him for presuming to order the Libertad to sail, when the Government of the country prohibited it. Neither will we take upon us to censure President Mitre for appointing such a man to represent the country on so critical an occasion.

These for us are extraneous matters, but we think it right to call attention to the gross imaginary benefits to be derived by the country at large from it once declaring war against the Banda Oriental, bombarding Montevideo, seizing her shipping, and ultimately, after giving the Orientals a sound thrashing, making an honorable and advantageous peace, with whatever Government may then have the misfortune to rule that hapless country.

The consideration of these subjects are so peculiarly within our province, and calm reviewers of the impending strife, that we apprehend none will gainsay our right or question our sincerity.

There is every reasonable probability for supposing that if we declare war against President Berro, neither he nor his Government will last another month, because we will throw a couple of thousand men at once into the country, because we hold Martin Garcia and rule the Uruguay, because we hold the ports and custom in the land, and the country oppressed with invasion on one side and rebellion on the other, will yield to whatever terms we impose. But is the Montevideon Government or the Republic of the Uruguay able to refund to us the expenses of such a war? Is the empty honour of reducing or humiliating that country commensurate with the depression which must necessarily attend any currency on the declaration of war?

Is there any possible benefit to be reaped from such a war? Is it worth converting of the blancos to reinstate the colorados.

These are considerations worthy the attention of our leading men, and in fact of all who take an interest in the country's welfare.

Fearlessly we say it, the Argentine Republic cannot afford to go to war at present. To be sure we have steamers, but they are without guns; barracks, but without soldiers; a treasury but without a dollar. Are we then going to plunge it to a war which, viewed in the most favourable light, would cost more than ever was seen though victory, than on our vanquished enemies.

The paper dollar saves Montevideo from entire prostration, and ruin and impetuosity, it cools our indignation.

One hundred and sixty millions of paper money is this day held by English-speaking foreigners in Buenos Ayres. If war is declared, this currency will at once depreciate 10 per cent. President Mitre, we appeal to you, is it right that you should force on us such a loss? And if, as it is stated, we cannot make war without having another issue of "of paper money, what, may we ask, will be the value of the paper dollar after we have concluded the Oriental war, or even before it is rightly begun?

If ever there was a momentous hour in the political existence of this country—if ever there was a period when the fate of the nation depended upon the discretion of its rulers—if ever there was a time, when the cool dispassioned voice of reason and prudence should be heard—it is the present. Ours be the task to bear the olive branch over the waters of the Plate, to preach peace, harmony, and good will.

Granted that Argentine soil has been violated.

Granted that our flag has been insulted, and even fired on,

Granted that we have every just cause of complaint, and that right is on our side—granted all these, what would more—still war should not be proclaimed.

Not as foreigners, but as Argentines, we implore of President Mitre to hear us—to patiently endure whatever insults have been offered—not from fear of his enemys, but compassion for his native soil.

Shall we appeal in vain? Will the ear be and entreatheugh at our fears—scorn our advice? If so, then alas for the Argentine Republic!

THE 'STANDARD' ABROAD.

NOTES ON GOYA.

Nov. 27th, 1868.

About the commencement of the present century, the site now occupied by the town of Goya was a cattle farm belonging to a Portuguese whose wife was named Gregoria, familiarly contracted into Goya. Here the ships passing used to call for beef, and the position was so favourable that the Government resolved to build a town thereon, and the first house was put up by Sor. Garcia, 1820, father of the fellow-passenger who is my informant. So late as six years ago, after a lengthened suit, the family succeeded in getting payment for the site so appropriated.

Goya is capital of the richest district in the province, and one of the finest towns on the Parana. The houses are of brick, and the population exceeds three thousand, including a large foreign element of Italians, Basques, and French. The plaza is very handsome, with a pyramid in the centre, the fort on the other one side, and the splendid church on a third. The principal streets are wide, well laid out, and very straight, the latter a feature not yet finished, of grand dimensions, the host being estimated at $150,000 silver, contributed by local subscription. The chief authority is a Gefe Politica, and there is also a Judge of 1. ª Instancia, with a lawyer and several small legal functionaries under him. The principal affairs of the place are in keeping of two priests, and although the climate is extremely salubrious, there are seven doctors to protect the public health. Dr. Newkirk (Standard agent) formerly of Fortin de Arco, Buenos Ayres, is in good practice with Dr. Bas. Ronni and Donnally, the first a Swiss, the second an Italian. There are national free schools for both sexes, the female teachers of which are foreigners. Most of the inhabitants are rich estancieros, several of whom keep their carriages. A public park is about to be laid out, at very moderate prices, for any part to which the traveller may wish to repair. The fowls are plentiful, the peaches, pine, orange groves being numerous. Although venemous reptiles are often seen, no accident ever occurs except to those upon which they endeavour to do so twelve hours after having been bitten. In Italy I have often known cows to die from the bite, they immediately eat certain herb which cures them; here this remedy probably does not exist.

There are two English steamers in Goya, but I could only learn that one of them is called Don Pedro, and is one of the oldest inhabitants. There is a Scotch Church, or Church of England. Both of the priests are Italians, this nationality being largely represented. Goya is subdivided into the town and the suburbs; and many of the houses are two stories high. An excellent bridge crosses an arroyo on the outskirts. The streets are twenty yards wide, each quadra or block being 150 yards, furnished with three oil-lamps, but there is no gas company. Water is procured by sinking it, as the water flows off without forming mud. La Esperanza is the name of the weekly paper, published by Sor. Garcia, which reaches 200 subscribers, and has its own printing office fitted up by subscription of the wealthy to do residents. The police office is a handsome building, but institution has fallen into disuse; happily the people bear a reputation of honesty, and peaceful habits. Lock-jaw frequently results from such trivial causes as the prick of a thorn, but the terror of infants of "mal de este dias" very rare, and the physicians ascribe it to the vaccination of children. The post-office is very irregular. The public cemetery, about a league distant, is well kept, with some fine monuments, and a handsome chapel. Such is the general prosperity of this industrious town that the citizens of Corrientes jestingly term it "the little B. Ayres."

The principal trade of the place consists in hides, wool, cheese, and oranges. On some estancias are found 500 milch cows, and the owners are so rich that it is proverbial "that there are no beggars at Goya."

Orange groves are frequent, but the business is diminishing, while the excellent cheese is finding its way to the various ports "aguas abajo," a large quantity being sent to B. Ayres. Cotton would grow well here, the climate being warm and dry. Imports are received from Buenos Ayres, and consist of the principal articles which have cost there one thousand silver dollars each. The Paraguay, Brazilian, and Capital Bonds' securities all here both ways, giving an impetus to trade.

FARMING IN GOYA.

Nov. 27th, 1868.

There is, in my opinion, no part of the Argentine republic so favorable for Irish sheep-farming, or offering such inducements to poor immigrants as Goya. I would strongly recommend those estancieros who are sending their flocks out towards the Indian frontiers of Bragado, Junin, Rojas, Azul and 25 de Mayo to visit this district, confident that they will feel disposed to accept the unrivalled advantages of its fine land, almost gratis, perfect security for life and property, cheap freight, low taxes, ready communication with Buenos Ayres and other towns, and numerous markets.

The Government valuation of land is $200 to $1,000 or $8 to 40 thousand Irish. But no Argentine property yet labeque. The rural selling price ranges from 3 to 4 thousand dollars. There are no Indian marauders, the province being protected by two numerous cavalry and the Guarania who were converted by the Jesuits cannot be distinguished from Christians, having embraced the religion and habits of the people. The province is almost the only one exempt red from wars and forms in every man- ner, in the political category, a wholly distinct nation from the unfortunate Argentine republic, being separated from its unhappy sisters by the Gran Chaco. Hundreds of boats, large and small, navigated by the countrymen of Columbus, carry down its products to Buenos Ayres at the rate of 1 to 11 reals per quintal, or just half the price charged by the 'carretas' between Villa Luxan and the capital. Meantime the terror of being 700 miles from Buenos Ayres is only figurative; for the road to Azul is much more distant: six steamers ply monthly to and fro, providing every convenience, many of them to Buenos Ayres in three or four days, whereas there are but two diligences monthly to Azul, and the mode of travelling very disagreeable. Land carriages have been bought at 6 dollars, mares at 12 reals, and saladeros have been established which are not subject to the exorbitant taxes of Buenos Ayres.

The sheep are not of a superior quality, and fetch a dollar each. It is just the one to add about the middle of the climate and soil unadapted for flocks, as the animals do not thrive, the grass is what is called 'poste fuerte,' several species yet unknown to botanists which are in such little esteem that only a sufficient number is kept to feed the oxen, the rains are thrown away as useless, and the business regarded as unprofitable. I ask my readers, however, did not the same facts and ideas hold good in the commencement of Australia's next 2 years ago, and may not these difficulties and prejudices be removed in a short time by efforts to care and refine the breed? I have seen flocks of up 8 Rambouillet rams, which were safely landed at Goya, for a native estanciero, whose sheep have since been beginning to gain ground. It is not so long since the natives in Buenos Ayres scouted their sheep for fed by brick-kilns, and they immediately on with the wool, an article which now fore- just half (1s 2d) of the total exports of the republic.

The property tax, 'contribucion directa,' is 4 per mill per annum. Horses may be sported at 3 to 4 dollars, and cattle animals to a dollar, at certain times two. The awful situation of a drought, so formidable in Buenos Ayres, is unknown here, the rains never being intersected with streams and rivers. This causes an inconvenience to travellers in a wet winter, when the streams rise and prevent a possibility of fording. On the high-roads boats are then provided, and rivers like Rio Bacia, where no bridge exists, are forded in carts throughout the year. As a general rule it rains little and freezes still less. The camp is diversified, at intervals level and undulating, and is dotted with natural 'montes,' besides a multitude of orange-groves, and timbers useful for building. The Indians of the natives are much more friendly and industrious than in the rural districts of Buenos Ayres, and very anxious to see foreign immigrants settle down, to assist in developing the grand resources with which the bountiful Creator has endowed the province, and Goya in particular.

Having said as much of sheep and cattle farming to interest men of capital in turning to these new and favored regions, I will now enter into the subject of cheese, which forms no small part of the revenue of Goya and Esquina and invites the poor immigrant to secure an easy and profitable livelihood. There is great demand for this article, which cows abound on all sides, and the estancieros exclaim "all we want is hands to double the product and its liberal gains." Ten or twelve cows are calculated for each cheese, and a woman can make one of 12lbs. in a day. The market price is from 12 reals upwards and the proprietor gives half the proceeds to the maker, besides providing house, food, and all necessaries gratis. In this manner a woman can support her family and earn 3 shillings English Stores. I hope his Provincial Excellency prefers San Juan to Washington, but President Mitre wants some first rate men to represent us in the Senate, and very properly considers that Sr. Sarmiento a the right man.

The National Government has accused an article published in the "Nacional" the other day, respecting Sor. Gazon, the Chief of Police. The Chief of Police has a bad temper to play, and though at times we feel bound to call his and the public attention to matters concerning his office, but when we do so we do it in such a harmless playful manner, that Mr. Gazon himself is constrained to laugh. We believe that many abuses exist in his office, but as a city magistrate he is deserving of the public thanks for his strict judicial integrity.

A FRIGHT UL CAUSE

The 'Independencia,' an Italian paper published in Rosario, dated 14th of September, contains the following mysterious occurrence—

'In the Calle Faria, a short distance from the old houses that have not been rebuilt, are furnished rooms to be let to respectable. A mason who lives in one of those rooms, heard a knock at his door on Saturday night. On opening it he perceived two men, who desired him to accompany them in order to repair a piece of work. The man refused, but on being promised a large recompense, he accepted. When he got to the house, the servitors was there, and the three got in. This no sooner done, than threatening the mason with a loaded pistol, they obliged him to be blindfolded. The carriage went on for a long time, frequently changing directions. At last it stopped, and the mason was taken by the hand, and led him into a house, where after climbing a number of steps, reached a room, where he perceived the bandage from his eyes. They ordered him to make a large hole in the wall, deep and long enough to build a coffin. The mason, though unwilling to obey, however, on being threatened with immediate death, he reluctantly consented. The hole being finished, he brought from an adjacent room a coffin covered up; and afterwards dragged in, by the two armed men, appeared a young and beautiful girl, elegantly dressed, making the most desperate resistance. The unfortunate girl was placed into the coffin, which was nailed down, was placed in the excavation. The mason, again threatened with death, had to build up the wall and plaster it, in a manner that it should not be noticed. This done, they blindfolded him again, and the carriage took him to a lonely place, where they again removed the bandage from his eyes, and giving him 10 piastres, desired him to go off. The mason ran to the police and told his story, but quite unable to give any directions that could guide the authorities. The police, not despairing, exert themselves to obtain a clue to direct them in finding the authors of such an atrocious crime.'

I notice the 'Nacion Argentina' gives a great account of a supposed encounter with Medina's army. No doubt, before this, you will have found out it is all false.

The 'Nacion Argentina' says 400 men were killed.

I do not believe there ever was a battle fought in this country where 400 men were ever killed. In official despatches we have seen them, but not on the field of battle. However, the 'blanco' party, or 'Partido Nacional,' as they call themselves, do not intend fighting Flores, for the present; they have first to settle a squabble in the Senate.

No doubt, you will have seen that the 'caneras,' or cavildo party, or to give you the modern name, 'Partido Aguirre Nacional,' have voted Mesa, Ensaquin and Nubell, on the plea that one is a relative to the President, and Nubell a partner of Ensaquin's.

Sr. Cores then presents a motion, declaring Caneras, Estranzulas, also violators of the constitution.

Then several articles appear in the 'Reforma' recommending Ensaquin and Nubell to make a sacrifice, by resigning, and thus put an end to the squabble; but these gentlemen have taken no notice. It appears they do not much like the idea of resigning 5 silver dollars per day, although they can well afford it.

The general opinion is, that it is quite just they should sit in the Senate. However, they might make a sacrifice by resigning, as the country would go on as well without them.

No doubt, they are very respectable men, but rather narrow-minded.

Marmol's mission is, indeed a secret one as first reported. His name was mentioned in his arrival, and since then has not occupied the public mind. To-day, I believe, he returns.

Flores is said to be manufacturing lances of shears and 'cabo Tacuara,' in Florida.

The English Packet's next proceeds will amount to nearly £1000.

In the 'Progresso' of the 21st inst. of the 19th ultimo, we have an excellent article, "Los Asesinatos," truthfully depicting the serious injury done society by the leniency during the criminal law in execution in cases of wilful murder, but merely condemning the criminal to imprisonment, where after a short time he is again let loose upon society to follow his diabolical career.

There has been much of the cotton seed distributed by the estancieros for the grubs. It appears that these insects are harmless to the plants, after they have gained sufficient strength to shoot above the ground.

COMMERCIAL COMPLAINT.

To the Editors of the Standard.

Gentlemen,

As I have always heard that in the columns of your well-liked paper there is found room for any fair complaints, and as I am a subscriber to the 'Standard' and an admirer of it, I beg you will call attention to what I believe to be a mistake.

I am a member of a mercantile firm as well known, and I believe as respectable, as any in public or private credit existing in the city of Buenos Ayres. Notwithstanding, I have been subjected to a treatment which no merchant in Germany, nor in Holland, nor in England, and I question if it will be suffered in Buenos Ayres.

In order to avoid any charge arising you on the head of personalities, I have purposely omitted giving the names of the parties in question, but I am, if required, in a perfect state to prove every assertion I make, and to publish to the people of Buenos Ayres not only my own name, but also that of others; for I am fully determined I shall and must have justice.

We sold, some time ago, to a merchant residing within the municipal boundaries of this Buenos Ayres, a certain quantity of goods, on the usual credit, and received a "pagare" by payments. In the usual course of business, we endorsed same and handed it to our broker to be discounted. By some unlooked-for misfortune, this bill got into the hands of what many believe a loon to the country, but I believe to be a thorough nuisance—a private bank, which, I must unhesitatingly say, would do more business if it had better clerks and lighter order. At precisely a quarter past three o'clock on last Saturday, the day the bill matured, an impudent clerk presented it faithfully which was only for thirty ounces, and, without even the common politeness lasted, stated that he wanted to know whether the bill would be paid in three-quarters of an hour or protested. I asked the young man if he had demanded payment of the drawer, to which he replied "No." I then felt like kicking the fellow out of our office, as a trespasser, as I have always believed that the drawer of a bill is the first person to look to, and then, in case of default, recourse is had to the endorsers. As the drawer of the bill is of as good, if not better credit than the bank on question, I was surprised that the bill was sent to us. Determined, however, to do everything that was good in the matter, I told the clerk that in our house he should not speak of protests, and that if he had not demanded payment of the drawer or maker of the bill, it was his duty to do so, and if it was not paid then we should make it paid—that previous to Monday evening if the bank sent us the bill I would send down one of our clerks and request payment of the drawer, who we knew would pay it. But instead of the bill being sent to us, as agreed on, a swarthy individual presented himself, calling himself a servant of the Municipality, to protest the bill. I was so dumfoyd at the trick and cut I should be so treated, I refused outright to pay the bill. It was protested; and I have entered a contra protest, and will and shall have my rights.

Now, I wish you, gentlemen, to publish this plain statement of facts, which many will regard as a "dirty affair." If I do not get full and perfect satisfaction from the person who manages this bank, which probably has more necessity to borrow money than we have, I shall take every measure adoptable to bring the matter before the proper quarter, where I know I shall get redress.

MONTEVIDEAN BAZAAR.

Montevideo, Dec 4, 1863.

Mr. Standard,

As everybody talked of going to the British Bazar on Wednesday evening, I proposed to my old friend Dewbit (supporting banker) to join me. He said we should go too. "Agreed," said we; and so we started. Another hard in front of the House was playing the laugh ng chorus from the "Sonnambula Ball" as we approached. We got our tickets and entered. It was a matter of some difficulty to enter the "foyer," but with a liberal application of elbows to the men, and dispense me's to the ladies the feat was accomplished. Dewbit stepped most unceremoniously on an old gentleman's corns, but begged of him with such a sweet smile not to "mention it," that his victim was mollified on the instant.

But now came the tug of war. Two pretty girls sidled up. Would Dewbit see how the handsome pair of slippers, the elegant smoking cap or this sweet half-dozen of pinafores. In vain we protested. A pair of calm brown eyes were fixed upon me. I do not know which that these eyes knew I had thirty two patacones and eight cents snugly stowed away in my right hand trowser waistcoat pocket. I felt guilty and turned for relief to Dewbit. He was just inspiring his change of an ounce. The clerk-ge was a pin cushion. Disturbance was useless. Ig ve up at once, and like a Spartan of old laughed at the sacrifice and smiled upon the fair executioners.

But, like young hears, our troubles were not to be over. A set of ungodly pawky-looking books were then introduced to our notice. Now, Mr. Standard, you who have known me for years, will tell me—I look like a man capable of reading a book headed "The tiny tadpole, or Milk for babes?" Never, never! Dewbit knew what could I do? Ah! fair Mrs —, do you remember the melancholy, Byronic looking young man, with a red nose, long hair, a short stick, and a white hat with black crape around it, to whom you sold one patacone's worth of "Skill of the Spirit?" Well, that was me, Jack Quandary, at your service. Bewitching Mrs —! Like my great prototype, Ir ving, I variably say—

Maid of Philadelphia, ere we part,
Give, oh I give, me back my patacone.

Two steps further and (shades of Argentine heroines!) a fair lady offered to sell us anything, from a penny cent-bottle to a stuffed (no, not elephant, Dewbit—asked for one; but they were all sold) Rhinoceros. (Don't know what that is, but I suppose it's all right.) Visions of many happy days spent in Burnham Beech—of tertulias and balles, of drives to Paternon, of trips to San Fernando or Quilmes, flashed across my mind. My bleeding purse was drained without a murmur. Apropos. Your learned correspondent, "Knickerbocker" (unfound by), took the cash, and thereby offered to trust me to any amount more.

Our attention was next called to a gallant and well-known "botitorio," who had just accomplished a treaty with a fair belle, the terms of which remained with the happy possessor of one inch of her ankle. The lucky boy has price to half an ounce. They are an impudent set, those apothecaries, and I don't think Shakespeare could have had them in view when he wrote 'Romeo and Juliet.'

Dewbit looked quite sentimental at this, and I was looking for something to enliven him, when the magic word, "confiteria," caught my ear. Dewbit's face lit up with a smiling look. The smile of joy that illumined Dewbit's expressive features, was a commentary which throws Storey's in the shade, and which I leave your friend Camilla to translate. Hetook off his spectacles, wiped them, and having assured himself that his watch was safe, made a sally bolt for the ice-cream department. I followed as fast as possible. First, we had two "helados" each. Then three drops of brandy and water. The sell ker was young young Boticario came in at this instant—What would we take? A bottle of cham pain to keep the ice from hurting us. There were some sandwiches on the counter. They were tested too. Then in came Mr. and Mrs. Major followed by Snuffers and Snuffer-boxer. Had we tried that capital sherry? The sherry was good too. Young Hopkinson recommended the pale "53." He was right, the "53" was a good article, but 31 was better. I tried it several times, and ought to know.

We started to go back. The saloon was as gay as ever. Got a bottle of boy from a small wax model. Next, just to clear the head, Got in salad—A young butjack wanted me to buy a lady—with patent spring to it—pull off your patacones—for ten cents and a half. No more money. Dead broke. Borrowed five Germans—of a fat pawnbroker—with white choke and gallon hair. Gave it to a toothpick—for pretty girl—solid gold—hair down its back. Something said—pity people would get drunk. I thought so too. Very intemperate thing because everybody said. Everybody looked at me. I don't they they thought I owed em money.

Went out. Something fell down stairs. Dewbit said twas Gunnybags. No's thing. Orange stairs—bad pools to leave on things.

J. GUNNYBAGS.

IMPORTANT FROM PILAR.

Mr. Cuttle has given full of rain on the night of the 1st inst., it continued at intervals until sun rise the following morning; this news is as good as if not better than the Chief's death.

A Basque, by name Luis Legia had a point of sheep stolen from him on the night of the 2nd inst. Much notice of pence is not yet aware of this robbery in my opinion it would tell well for the Standard, were it to announce a robbery in the county did Pilar. The local authorities heard of it; in case you are of the same opinion, for your further information I may state that, the Basque is a storekeeper in that district, the number lost is something over 100, he was in town with his wool when the sheep were stolen.

EXCITING SCENE.

AWFUL ESCAPE.

TERRIBLE CONFUSION.

The second train coming into town from Belgrano this morning narrowly escaped collision.

On leaving Belgrano at 12 10 p.m., about one mile on this side, another train was discovered on the road. The cattle-drivers perfectly comprehended the difficulty, but, as they found themselves in the right, neither was willing to give way, until they got so close that one "universal smash" was inevitable. The passengers, not entering into the spirit of the sport, felt "werry awkward" inside, and one young lady implored for the door to open at the window. One of the 'Tribuna' editors wished he was an 'absent friend.' Our friend Dewbit remembered the engine that we can describe it; but, luckily, the approaching train put back, and no lives were cost.

GERMANY.

Austria and the 22 States which with her signed the German Reform Bill at Frankfort are about to forward identical Notes to Prussia, in which that wayward Power will be entreated not to per-ist in making unacceptable propositions. Should Prussia again refuse to accept the terms of the Reform Bill, which was approved by a very great majority of the members of the Congress, the twenty-three Governments will forthwith proceed to the following measure, concurrence. A Federal execution will to a certainty take place in Holstein. The other day Dantzer Government should consent to do what the German Diet has required of it, but no one here believes that the occupation of the Duchy will lead to a war. As was observed in one of the letters which I wrote to you from Frankfort, it is impossible quietly to discuss the Holstein question with German politicians, so violently prejudiced are they against the Dane; but, fortunately for the peace of the world, the German sovereigns are somewhat more dispassionate than their subjects. As it appears to me, the only thing likely to lead to a collision between the Danes and Germans would be the occupation of the Duchy by the latter; that town, which lays on the Eider, being an important strategic point.

LOCAL EVENTS.

TREMENDOUS HEAT—I 3 IN THE SHADE—Our respected friend from the Villa Mercedes, Mr. Michael Murray, sold his wool on Friday last. 93 dollars per arroba. As we regard this a high figure in our wool barometer, we think it worthy of note.

DR. ARGERICH has published in the 'Nacional' a fearful attack on our friend, the Chief of Police, bringing forth very grave charges against his conduct in his official capacity.

NEW TRANSEATION—Sr. Cuttillo has published, a new work, "Opinions of the Hon. Secretary of United States," by Story. it will be very useful to Buenos Ayres law students and lawyers.

THE PAPPITCOSTEREORA-MA is being taken to the camp, and the owners are about to make a tour through the country towns with it. We hear the proprietors have secured the services of an eminent prestidigitator lately arrived from Europe: and we recommend our readers to attend this exhibition of science from the war in the United States and other places.

ARGENTINE RACES.—The Theore races promise to be more than usually attractive to-day, and the country will be delightful after the pleasant showers we have had. Much interest is excited in the race of two rounds, where the half-bred, 'Gaucho Pobre,' comes against the great native crack, 'the Pangari' (they say Del Rincon.) I would, indeed, be a triumph for the 'blood,' if a four-year-old should beat an ab.-cent, 9 hands to weight, and considered the horse of this country. The card shows six events, so there will be no lack of sport if the turfites here on the Belgrano line choose.

COLONIA—The pilot boat 'Star,' was fined 200 silver dollars for having a 'Tribuno' on board on her last arrival. Can you say in print of the Banda Oriental will any of the Spanish papers be admitted.

GRAND TRAIN—On Friday night what rain, what heavenly rain. Saturday morning we all arose in good humour: the day looked lowering. We hear that several of the Directors of the camps are beautiful and the arroyos impassable.

GENERAL MUD — This Argentine General, who at times has been so formidable, has just returned from travelling over all Europe. We under stand that he was particularly examining a short time with us, as he says things have not been going on to his liking, during his absence. An old friend, Colonel Pantaud, is, as usual, with him These illustrious and welcome visitors are stopping at the Hotel de los Grand Pays, and as soon as it rains a little, purpose to commence operations on the Barracas and Flores road.

ERRATA—In yesterday's edition when referring to the case of Mr. Francisco Alzaga, by some mistake Felix, instead of Francisco, was the name published. Our readers will please note that it was an unintentional error, on our part, as the name of Felix Alzaga is one of the most reputable in this city.

An ever-watchful and constant supervision, and a strict maintenance of order and propriety, are the essential characteristics of the morals and behaviour of the pupils are carefully attended to.

The different branches taught in the English Grammar School comprise the English, French and Spanish languages, History, Geography, Arithmetic, and Book-keeping in all its parts, Writing, and Religious Instruction.

Extra lessons, such as Latin, Mathematics, Gymnastic Music and Drawing, are also taught by special masters.

SAVINGS BANK.

BANK MAUA & C.

— No. 103 calle de Cangallo. —

BUENOS-AYRES.

The immense advantages of Accounts Current are now so generally felt, and appreciated in the two great emporiums of the River Plate—Montevideo & Buenos Ayres—that there are very few Merchants who fail to keep one at the Bank in which they place the most confidence.

The Bank of Mauá & Co. in Montevideo has already provided for the working class in that city, a safe & profitable depository for their savings.

The sums deposited in that most important institution are daily increasing and already reach a very large amount.

These advantages have not hitherto been enjoyed in this city by an immense number of Clerks, artisans, working-men & servants of all classes & conditions, who are equally interested in putting their savings out at interest, thus providing themselves with a reserve fund in case of need, sickness or old age, instead of spending them in the immoral gambling, in lotteries and other rivolities

The Bank of Mauá and Co. &, this city following the example of their Montevideo firm in Montevideo now offer the same facilities in this city and will open on the 1st October a "Savings Bank" at No. 103 calle Cangallo from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. ox week days; and on Sundays and holidays from 10 a. m. to 12 m. for the reception of the savings of the classes already mentioned.

The Bank will deliver to each depositor a Pass Book in which will be entered the amount deposited and withdrawn.

The depositor is permitted at any time to withdraw the whole or part of the sum deposited, in the former case the interest will be calculated up to date,

The Bank of Mauá and Co. is sufficiently known to the public by the benefit derived from the course of its operations which are regulated on the strictest and soundest principles and always directed to promote the general welfare.

The Bank of Mauá and Co. are also persuaded that this new branch of their business will render immense service to the working classes of Buenos Ayres and its neighbourhood.

Buenos Ayres September 19th 1863.

CONDITIONS.

1st. The Bank receives at interest any sum from Twenty five dollars currency or one silver dollar upwards.

2nd. The interest allowed is six per cent [6 p£] per annum which is liquidated every six months.

3rd. The depositor can at any time retire the whole or part of the money deposited.

4th. Once the amount deposited exceeds Twenty five thousand dollars currency or one thousand dollars silver the depositor if he wishes can open an account current according to the rules established by this Bank.

5th. In case the depositor loses his Pass Book it can be replaced by another on paying twelve dollars currency, and advertising the loss in the public newspapers.

No more Scab in Sheep.

Patented by Government

General Store in Buenos Ayres at 205 CALLE BUEN ORDEN.

Store at Villa Mercedes, of Messrs Kautz and Schwingel.

Store at Tuyú, Establishment of D Carlos Geyer.

The shearing time being at hand, the inventor of the Anti-Scab Specific for curing Camps Diseases in Sheep, and all domestic Animals, begs to inform the Estancieros that it can never be applied with more effect to shearing, when it not only cures the worst cases, but acts as a preservative against the disease.

The simplest method is bathing the animal, whether sound or affected, in the manner prescribed by the instructions.

The Specific has been already found an effectual remedy for Insects (Garrapatas).

Numerous certificates may be seen, showing the high repute of the Specific throughout S. America. Its low price places it within the reach of all, 5 dollars for 800 or 1000 Sheep. It contains no poisonous quality, and is sold at the above Depots.

Great and Useful Invention.

No more Mortality for want of Water.

Sure wealth to Estancieros

By the Robert Apparatus.

Being notorious the immense injury occasioned by the scarcity of water during the long seras that afflicts the camps of Buenos Ayres, I have determined to dedicate to the Estancieros an Apparatus at once simple and infallible for procuring as much water as they may require.

1200 Bordalesas per hour (it seems fabulous) is procured with my apparatus, without fear of at any time its getting out of order.

This machine is worked by one horse, and in one day's work can give 1400 Bordalesas; that is to say, sufficient water for 70,000 head of cattle.

The following figures so calculated the immense advantages gained by its use.

Another advantage is the facility of putting it together and taking it to pieces, so as to be able to transport it to any place where it may be necessary to use it, either for watering purposes or others.

GREAT MODIFICATION.

I have made an improvement in my Apparatus, applying a new system, which reduces the necessary force two-thirds, giving it at the same time more rapidity.

Those interested can see it at Calle Moreno, No. 346 (Henrerado, Paris).

One sole inspection of the Apparatus will prove to them the superiority of it over any other. ROBERT
